The polygon must intersect the ground. The polygon must not contain itself. So if I have a polygon (x1,y1) (x2,y2) (x3,y3)... (xn,yn) I want to calculate the X-value of the largest square under the polygon and the Y value of the largest square under the polygon. The method must not be "advanced" by using two polygons but working with one polygon and iterate through each vertex. (where d is the polygon edge and p.X and p.Y is the pth vertex) I've tried a recursive solution with upper- and left-recursion but I don't think this is the way to go, so I've begun implementing an ad-hoc solution using a stack which isn't great but it works (I am now using a Stack and a HashSet to track the largest squares and store the leaf values). Is there a better way? A: If you can
