Activity Log, just like the name, is the root of all activity within a system. It is a useful application that can handle many different tasks, such as browsing the system, looking up from phone numbers, reading e-mail, and even writing short text messages. Activity Log is a unique software application that allows users to store their own activities in the system. It starts by opening a window in which it allows users to record their searches, visits, and even text messages. Users are able to choose the folders that will be created within their windows using the set of tabs that are available at the top and also set the time period when this activity log will be used. Along with that, you will have the ability to modify the settings of the application, for example, it is possible to turn off some parts of the application (e.g. the search window) and even customize the search field by adding your own keywords. Every time the user clicks on the search field, it will start a 09e8f5149f
