treating a spastic condition of the central nervous system and, more particularly, to a method of treatment using a parenteral pharmaceutically acceptable daily dose of 17-alpha-alkylated corticosteroids or a 5 alpha-reduced metabolite thereof. The term spasticity refers to a generally involuntary condition of increased muscle tone and resistance to movement induced by a lesion or dysfunction of the corticospinal tract in the central nervous system. The most common form of treatment for this condition is the administration of drugs which act to reduce reflex sympathetic reflex activity. One such drug is Clonidine which is used for reduction of blood pressure in persons suffering from hypertension. When used for the reduction of spasticity, Clonidine is administered at a dose of about 1 to 4 micrograms/kilogram of body weight per day. Thus, the typical dosage is from about 5 to 20 micrograms/kilogram of body weight per day. The plasma half-life for Clonidine is about 20 minutes and the therapeutic level of the drug is about. about. 90 nmol. In the course of administering Clonidine, the patient receives a gradually increasing dosage which is usually tapered to a low level after several days. Another drug which is often used for reduction of spasticity is Baclofen which is a GABA-positive modulator and which, like Clonidine, also reduces the blood pressure of hypertensive patients. In the case of Baclofen, $f(x) = g(x) + h(x)$  Consider the following problem, we are asked to prove if  $f(x)$  is divisible by  $x^2$ ; then  $f(x)$  is divisible by  $x^2$ . I understand there are two cases: If  $f(x)$  is not divisible by  $x^2$ , then the problem is trivial, however if it is divisible by  $x^2$ , it is still not obvious to me how to prove it is true.

A: Suppose that  $f(x) = x^2g(x) + h(x)$  for some polynomials  $g(x), h(x)$ . Then  $f(x^2) = x^2g(x^2) + h(x^2)$ , and so  $f(x^2) = f(x)$ . A: Suppose  $f(x) = x^2g(x) + h(x)$ . Then  $f(x^2) =$

$$x^2x^2 g(x^2) + x^2h(x^2) = x^2(g(x^2) + h(x^2)) = x^2f(x)$.$$
