What's New in the HD Video Converter Factory Pro?

HD Video Converter Factory Pro is a powerful application that can be of daily use for people who constantly have to deal with images and videos. You can easily convert any clip or photo to a large collection of formats and not only that, but you can also download videos from tons of popular sites, record your screen activity, and create GIFs. Slick interface As HD Video Converter Factory Pro is not a single purpose application and more of a suite. A colorful compact panel will greet you every time you run the app. The features are neatly placed at the bottom of that panel, and upon accessing one, a new UI, built around the function will pop-up. Each time you need to return to the selection screen, you just have to close the secondary tab. Convert image and files to a large base of formats Once landing on the converter's area, one can do a series of things. First, you need to add a file or more. Adding a file will unlock even more features, this time related to video editing. Before converting a clip, you can trim, crop, rotate, or add various effects to it, watermarks or change the metadata info. Furthermore, if you'd like to go in-depth regarding a video's properties, you can check out the Parameter settings menu. From there you can change options such as encoder type, resolution, bit rate, frame rate, aspect ratio, volume, etc. Download videos and record your screen The Downloader is the second function available in the UI. This one is super simple to use, as it only requires a URL of the clip you want to snag. In case you need more information about an item, you can proceed to analyze it. After the analysis is over, you'll find out what type of formats and resolutions are available, or the best to go with regarding the output file. Regarding the screen recorder, this is even easier to set up and use. You just have to adjust the quality slider, decide if you want to add a microphone to the mix, pick the screen size and you're ready to go. Create GIFs and take advantage of the Toolbox The GIF Maker is split into two parts - one for converting video and the other for images. The difference between the two processes is represented by a couple of video-specific settings that cannot be applied when creating a GIF from image files. Besides that, both options are very similar and have the same results. AS for the Tool
