For example: If the user has a field in a table called "UserName" - the user will search for the string in the "UserName" field, regardless of what is in the table. If the user is looking for a certain word in all of the rows in the table, a search for that word in each row is done (it takes the string from the first row it finds.) How to search for strings in a table column with Lucene? A: Try this query: `select * from user where UserName like '%$searchstring%'` For pagination, you will have to add '?' to the end of the search string. `$searchstring = "%$searchstring%"; $query = $db -> query(sprintf("select * from user where UserName like '%s'", $searchstring)); //`
Pagination `$start = 0; $rows_per_page = 5; $pagination_count = ceil($query->num_rows / $rows_per_page); $pagination_query = "select * from (select * from (select * from user where UserName like '%$searchstring%' order by UserName desc limit %d, %d)) where ROWNUM query($pagination_query);` If you want to set the max number of results to display, you can do: `$limit = 10; $pagination_query = sprintf("select * from (select * from user where UserName like '%s' order by UserName desc limit %d, %d)", $searchstring, $limit, $limit); $result = $db -> query($pagination_query);` UPDATE To calculate the number of pages, you will have to use the `ROW_NUMBER()` function to give each of the search strings a number (starting with 0) and then do a `WHERE ROWNUM BETWEEN %d and %d` (as long as you don't exceed the page limit).
