The signal from StarMade page 202

Editor's note: As promised in my previous eblast, here's the description of the first Fantasy Zone Article.

Character information will be posted in the next few days. The article will be hosted on ezweb untill it is ready.

Like their warrior-like predecessors, the Sigil Knights are a brave and noble order of warriors. Based around the city of Sigil, they have the power to summons magic stones to utilize in combat. Each knight has these stones branded on their backs. One knight can control up to 6 stones which can be used in double battles.

They have a special affinity with Sigil, acting to protect, serve and providing aid to the people and Pokemon. They also have the ability to use the famed King's Knight Pokemon. They use all of their abilities in combat. They not only have a weak attachment to the city, but also to the thief king, Giovanni, using him as a puppet to seek justice. This is obviously a move to assist the knights and toppish him to the lower levels, but these knights are not allies; this is a combination of self-preservation and justice to help those in need. The knights are used in most battles and can also be independent. They can also be paired with the elite carpenter, trainer, ranger and farmer classes, and can participate in the deeper battles.

The Sakeys are a tribe of monotheistic Pokemon who worship the reflection of the Light when the sun sets. The majority of the Silphids in the game are Sakeys. They consider fighting as a sin.

They use the Nintendlo, a lightweight weapon that can be used on Pokemon, humans and other objects. Their main aim is to prevent fights. They believe people are too corrupt to fight for their own benefit, and consider them weak. They can be
