.Q: Mechanize: Get the HTML output from a site I have a list of urls saved in a file. The list looks like: etc... I want to do a search and save the HTML pages in a file. Is it possible with Mechanize? How do I do that? A: If you save the html manually, I think you'll have to read through it manually as well, because you won't be able to use Mechanize to download the page (only save it in a file, but not to download it). You could save the page using Mechanize for saving it to a file, and then use your search as a redirect to the saved page. t t2, retry_count& r) { if(log_enabled("error-retry")) log_save(); retry_count retry = r? 0 : r.get(); if(!retry) // doesn't try to connect to server once, return false; #ifdef _TESTING_ // find a broken url for retry static const std::list broken({ "", "", "", "", "", "" }); #endif while(retry) { auto state = next_connect_url(url.get(), state_str); if(!state.is_ok()) return false; retry--; } return true; } // only the login controller will do this bool auth
